

Race Previews – Addington

Race 5 @ 4.00pm #13 The Surfer

It was hard to get into the race on Tuesday, but I was happy with the ground he made up. He faces another second row draw, so we'll be looking for a drag into it.

Race 10 @ 6.36pm #3 Mako

What a great line up of 3 year olds, but I believe this horse deserves his chance. From a handy draw he has options. I do think he can make his presence felt.

Race 12 @ 7.48pm #4 Kango

Put a line through Kaikoura given it was a tough ask. I'm happy with him, so let's hope he gets a soft trip and some luck in the running, and we get our chance.

Race 13 @ 8.24pm #5 Little Spike

I was rapt with the way he hit the line on Cup Day. With a similar effort I don't expect him to be too far away.

Race Previews – Cambridge

Race 2 @ 5.46pm #8 Le Major

I'm not sure how many strands of hair I've lost with this guy! We've made a couple of gear changes, and the word from base camp is that I need to stick with him.

Race 3 @ 6.25pm #8 Cracker Rock

Even though he's off the unruly he can't pull a draw. He's racing well and on exposed form looks a tidy each way chance.

Race 5 @ 7.27pm #9 Jolimont

It was an outstanding effort last start and his work since has been top notch. He starts off 30 metres, but you'd still have to say he looks a big winning hope.

Race 10 @ 9.54pm #6 Dragonstone

We found a small issue which explained why she had an uncharacteristic gallop first start back. The mobile will suit, so I'd like to think she's a top three chance.